Excerpt from An American Fighter Pilot in Mr Reagan Air Force

"I was sitting in the cockpit of my F-15 Eagle, waiting for takeoff. I had been flying for several years, but this was my first combat mission. I was nervous, but I was also excited. I had trained for this moment my entire life."

"The mission was to escort a group of bombers on a raid against a heavily defended target. We flew low and fast, dodging enemy radar and anti-aircraft fire. As we approached the target, I could see the explosions from the bombs. I could also see the enemy fighters trying to intercept us."

"I engaged one of the enemy fighters in a dogfight. We maneuvered back and forth, each of us trying to get a shot at the other. Finally, I got my chance. I fired my missiles, and the enemy fighter exploded."

"I had shot down my first enemy aircraft. It was a moment of great pride and exhilaration. I had proven to myself that I could fly an F-15 Eagle and that I could fight in combat."
