A Life of Courage and Conviction

Rosa Parks was born Rosa Louise McCauley on February 4, 1913, in Tuskegee, Alabama. Her childhood was marked by poverty and racial segregation. Despite these challenges, Parks developed a strong sense of self-worth and a deep commitment to justice.

In 1932, Parks married Raymond Parks, a barber. Together, they became active in the civil rights movement. Parks joined the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and worked tirelessly for equal rights for all.

In 1955, Parks' life took a dramatic turn when she refused to give up her seat on a bus to a white man. Her arrest and subsequent trial sparked the Montgomery bus boycott, which lasted for over a year. The boycott was a major turning point in the civil rights movement and helped to bring about the desegregation of public transportation in the United States.

Parks' act of defiance became a symbol of the growing resistance to racial discrimination. She was hailed as a hero by the civil rights movement and became an inspiration to millions around the world.
