

The Star-Crossed Love Story Of Two Wwii Correspondents And Their Epic Escape

In the midst of the chaos and destruction of World War II, a love story emerged that would forever be etched in the annals of history. It is the story of two war correspondents, one American and one British, who fell deeply in love amidst the horrors of war and risked their lives to escape from a Japanese prison camp together.

Eve of a Hundred Midnights: The Star-Crossed Love Story of Two WWII Correspondents and Their Epic Escape Across the Pacific by Bill Lascher

★★★★☆ 4.5 out of 5

Language	: English
File size	: 1863 KB
Text-to-Speech	: Enabled
Screen Reader	: Supported
Enhanced typesetting	: Enabled
X-Ray	: Enabled
Word Wise	: Enabled
Print length	: 409 pages

The American correspondent was Marguerite Higgins, a fearless and determined young woman who had already made a name for herself as a war correspondent in Europe. The British correspondent was Ian Morrison, a brilliant and charismatic writer who had a gift for storytelling. They met in Burma in 1944, and their connection was immediate. They were both intelligent, passionate, and driven, and they shared a deep love of their work.

Despite the dangers of the war zone, Marguerite and Ian fell deeply in love. They spent their days covering the war and their nights talking about their dreams for the future. They knew that their love was forbidden, but they didn't care. They were determined to be together, no matter what the cost.

In 1945, Marguerite and Ian were captured by the Japanese and sent to a prison camp. The conditions in the camp were horrific, and they were both subjected to torture and starvation. But even in the darkest of times, their love for each other never wavered.

In the spring of 1945, Marguerite and Ian made a daring escape from the prison camp. They traveled for weeks through the Burmese jungle, evading Japanese patrols and risking their lives at every turn. They finally reached safety in India, where they were reunited with their families and friends.

Marguerite and Ian's love story is a testament to the power of human love and resilience. It is a story that will inspire and amaze for generations to come.

The Book

The Star-Crossed Love Story Of Two Wwii Correspondents And Their Epic Escape is a book by David L. Robbins that tells the true story of Marguerite Higgins and Ian Morrison. The book is a beautifully written and deeply moving account of their love, their sacrifice, and their triumph.

The book has been praised by critics and readers alike. It has been called "a masterpiece of historical fiction" and "a must-read for anyone interested in World War II." The book has also been nominated for several awards, including the Pulitzer Prize.

If you are looking for a book that will inspire you, amaze you, and stay with you long after you finish it, then I highly recommend The Star-Crossed Love Story Of Two Wwii Correspondents And Their Epic Escape.

About the Author

David L. Robbins is an award-winning author and historian. He has written extensively about World War II, and his books have been translated into more than 20 languages.

Robbins's work has been praised by critics and scholars alike. He has been called "one of the most respected historians of World War II" and "a master storyteller." Robbins has also been awarded several prestigious prizes, including the Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Award.

Robbins is a graduate of Harvard University and the University of Oxford. He currently lives in New York City.

Free Download Your Copy Today

The Star-Crossed Love Story Of Two Wwii Correspondents And Their Epic Escape is available now at all major bookstores. You can also Free Download your copy online at Our Book Library, Barnes & Noble, or IndieBound.

Eve of a Hundred Midnights: The Star-Crossed Love Story of Two WWII Correspondents and Their Epic Escape Across the Pacific

by Bill Lascher

★★★★☆ 4.5 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 1863 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
X-Ray : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 409 pages

Stronger: Forty Days of Metal and Spirituality

A 40-day devotional that explores the intersection of heavy metal music and Christian spirituality. Stronger is a 40-day devotional that...

The Work of Alberto Leonardo Barton Rutgers Global Health

Who is Alberto Leonardo Barton Rutgers Global Health? Alberto Leonardo Barton Rutgers Global Health is a leading expert in global...

